

NODE TECH

CREATED, INNOVATE, PUBLISH

General objectives :

Mission:

Implement a web page with interactive academic articles created by our authors and certified collaborators, thus facilitating learning for our various users

Vission:

That all types of students both self-taught and academics who wish to be short-term collaborators in our website and form strategic alliances with different universities that are interested in our project in order to be next to the students.

Why this project :

We chose this topic to be able to reach more students or people who want to learn, seek to go further and improve themselves. That's where we come in. Node Tech is in charge of helping students. Where we offer small articles with concise information, being brief and to the point.

To whom it is addressed :

We are directed to the student community because we would like to be part of their formation, giving them a little knowledge of their own community. We provide the page, but the students themselves are the ones who provide the information, thus being a page suitable for the student community.

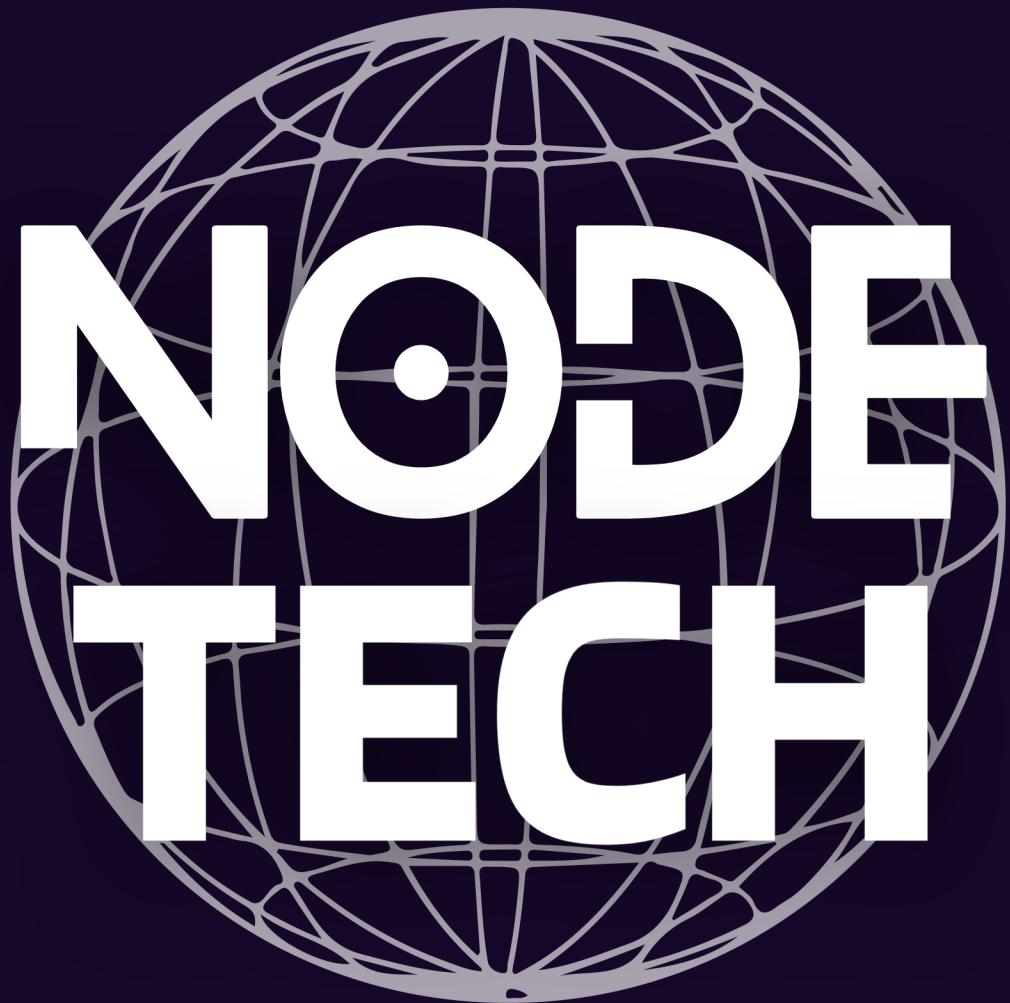

ESPECTATIVES:

In our expectations with the project we have:

- To be part of universities and other institutions and thus be able to reach more students..
- To make the page grow with the help of the students themselves..
- contribute to the upcoming training and be part of their training so that they can find in the project what they are truly looking for..

Node Tech

What is:

Node tech is a small platform that seeks to provide information on various topics, we are not limited to a single topic because the main idea of Node Tech is to reach different people and thus grow its community

At Node Tech we have identified that not everyone learns in the same way and much less at the same pace, this is where we come into action, where our users can not only visualize in an organized and detailed way all the topics that our collaborators have been able to create to provide the best collaboration.

Node tech is a project that seeks to provide support so that all people, whether students or self-taught, can enjoy and resolve their concerns and can also share some of their knowledge by accessing the section of authors...